PREFACE

English is a universal language and it is understood all over the world. In fact, in today's world speaking English has become a necessity. It is not only that but today's generation looks down upon anyone who is unable to speak English. It has become more like a status symbol. All the companies are recruiting only those people who speak fluent and correct English. With the coming up of the call centre and Multinational companies the need for English language has increased ten folds. With all this happening one cannot afford to live without speaking English.

In this book we have tried to do just that and that is to improve your English speaking skills. This book will help you in speaking better and correct English. After reading this book you will feel much more confident and better-equipped at speaking English. The book is divided into chapters and each chapter deals with different aspects of spoken English. Each chapter is given in a detailed manner so that you get the full knowledge about the given topic.

The book also contains a chapter on tongue twisters. They will help you in practicing how to speak English correctly and fluently. The chapter on slangs is also very interesting because it familiarises you with the usage of latest way of speaking in the modern world.

The book also has interesting chapters like common errors, which will help you in avoiding all the mistakes we usually make while speaking English. All and all, this book is your free ticket to the world of speaking better and fluent English.

INTRODUCTION

If you're a person whose mother-tongue is not English, the chances are, you've learnt English in the 'non-natural way'. That is, you've learnt English in a way that is opposite to the way of natural language acquisition.

You know, the natural way of acquiring a language is to learn to speak it first and then to write it.

Those people who do not learn English the natural way, know reasonable English – or even excellent English. And if you ask them to write a report or something in English, they may do it fairly well. But, if you ask them to speak to you about the same thing, they find it hard to do. Or even impossible.

When they start speaking, most of the words remain on the tip of their tongue and don't readily come out. And often, what words do come out sound disconnected and random. And, they find themselves speaking in a clumsy and unclear way, with long gaps and intervals of indecision between every two words. And they keep fumbling for something to say. Not only this, they find it difficult to go on beyond one or two lines, without tripping up and without stumbling over the sounds or sequences of sounds.

And then, they tend to fall back upon their mother-tongue – or become tongue-tied. This book will help you to overcome all these problems and will also help you in developing better speaking skills.

CONTRACTIONS

Contraction means to shorten a word or phrase by omitting one or more sounds or letters from it. The word so formed is also called a contraction. Discussed below are the various contractions used in spoken English.

The apostrophe has two uses:

1. To show that we have made words shorter. We have contracted them.
2. To show that something belongs to someone, i.e. they possess it. (possession)

Here are two examples.

- My dad's car is red.

Here we have only one dad but we have put on the letter 's' because we have put an apostrophe. It shows that the car belongs to dad.

- "I'll tell you that later," he whispered.

I will has become I'll, we have joined two words and missed out the letters WI and put in the apostrophe instead.

We use apostrophes because it can make our writing easier to read.

In the list below we are going to look at apostrophes for contracting words.

	Contraction	Letters missed out
Can not	Can't	no
Do not	Don't	o
Should not	Shouldn't	o
Could not	Couldn't	o
Would not	Wouldn't	o
Has not	Hasn't	o
I will	I'll	wi
They will	They'll	wi
He will	He'll	wi
There is	There's	i
Who is	Who's	i
You are	You're	a
They are	They're	a
Would have	Would've	ha
They have	They've	ha

Let's start with let's. Except for some set phrases (example: 'Let us pray') let us is almost always expressed as a contraction: let's.

Example:

- Let's go!

It is almost always used to express an imperative, thus:

- Let's do it!

However, sometimes it is used to express something like an admonition, thus:

- Let's do what we ought to do.

Sometimes it is used to make suggestion, thus:

- Let's keep this just between us.

The negative is 'let's not', but you will also come across 'don't let's'.

That's = That is

- That's all = That is all
- That's all I want = That is all I want
- That's it = That is it
- That's my son = That is my son
- That's my child = That is my child
- That's my daughter = That is my daughter
- That's what I wanted to say = That is what I wanted to say
- That's a good idea = That is a good idea

What's = What is

- What's going on = What is going on?
- What's that? = What is that?
- What's happening? = What is happening?
- What's going to happen? = What is going to happen?

What's = What has

- What's been happening? = What has been happening?
- What's been going on? = What has been going on?

-ouldn't've = -ould not have

Because of voiceless [t], the sound that follows, '-ve' sounds like of, which is where we get the erroneous spelling -ouldn't of.

|| Contractions

it's = it is

- It's a man = It is a man
- It's a woman = It is a woman
- It's a boy = It is a boy
- It's a girl = It is a girl
- It's a good thing = It is a good thing
- It's not a good thing = It is not a good thing
- It's time to go = It is time to go
- It's a good day to die = It is a good day to die
- It's a good speech = It is a good speech
- It's hot = It is hot
- It's cold = It is cold
- It's winter = It is winter
- It's summer = It is summer

it's = it has

- It's been a good day = It has been a good day
- It's been one of those days = It has been one of those days
- It's been good = It has been good
- It's been fun = It has been fun
- It's been a wonderful life = It has been a wonderful life
- It's been a trying time = It has been a trying time there's = there is

- There's one = There is one
- There's another = There is another

- There's a red balloon = There is a red balloon
- There's gold in those hills = There is gold in those hills
- Where there's water there's life = Where there is water there is life
- There's a lot of water in the river = There is a lot of water in the river

NEGATIVE:

- • There's not a lot I can do about it.
- There isn't much I can do about it.

IRREGULAR CONTRACTIONS:

won't = will not

Examples:

- I don't want to do it, so I won't do it.
- I won't do it unless you make me do it.
- I won't promise you anything.
- • I won't do anything.
- Why won't you help me?
- It won't work.
- He won't work.
- She won't work.
- They won't work.
- We won't work.

From those last five sentences, we can plainly see that nobody wants to work.

|| Contractions

The nots:

hasn't = has not isn't = is not don't = do not doesn't = does not won't = will not haven't = have not can't = can not wouldn't = would not shouldn't = should not couldn't = could not mustn't = must not

Examples:

- He hasn't been here in a long time.
- He isn't here now.
- I don't know when he will be here.
- He doesn't know when he will get here.
- I won't know until he gets here.
- I haven't been told.
- I can't find out.
- I wouldn't tell you if I knew.
- I shouldn't tell you.
- I couldn't tell you if I wanted to.
- I mustn't tell anyone.

+ the BE 'shan't' for 'shall not'. More and more, 'shall' is restricted to questions and formal language, where the contraction would be less likely to occur.

PRONUNCIATION

The first English lesson should deal with pronunciation. When you don't do pronunciation first, you have to do something else than pronunciation. And then whatever you do and if it involves speaking, then bad pronunciation habits are formed.

If you don't know how to pronounce and yet you pronounce your own way at the beginning of your learning, then you are building your habits in the wrong way. Learning words without pronunciation on the first lesson is damaging.

There are two possibilities that are recommended: (1) learn pronunciation from the beginning and speak from the beginning, (2) learn without pronunciation, but do not speak (you will start speaking at a later stage - after learning pronunciation).

The idea is not to have 'perfect' pronunciation from the beginning but 'correct' - understood in the following sense: (1) use the right sounds - perhaps your own versions of the English sounds, but make sure that there is a clear correspondence between your own sounds and the English sounds (2) always stress the right syllable.

Additionally, it's a good idea to be able to phonetically transcribe your own English output. This means that you will have conscious control over your output. You will have a 'digital perception' of your pronunciation - as opposed to an 'analog perception', which is usually developed by learners.

If you have a digital perception of your pronunciation, you have the following advantage:

If, through practice, you have mastered the ability to produce a particular English sound, say [@], you will be able to incorporate this new ability into each occurrence of this sound in your utterances because in every word you utter you know whether it contains this sound or not. (Learners who don't have a digital perception can learn to perfectly pronounce 'cat' and still be unable to say 'man' properly.)

DEFINITION OF GOOD PRONUNCIATION

Definition of good pronunciation is:

- (1) easy to understand by advanced users of English,
- (2) pleasant to hear for advanced users of English,
- (3) easy to pronounce for oneself.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT FLUENCY - SPEAKING SLOWLY IS OK.

English learners are often worried about their lack of fluency. They need much time to build sentences and this worries them. They would like to speak as fast as in their native language.

Please notice that building sentences in a foreign language is a real challenge for the brain. There are chemical processes that take place in the brain before a sentence can be built in a foreign language. Those processes take more time than building sentences in one's native language. At least in the beginning. Fluency comes with time and practice and it should not to be expected in the beginning of learning.

If you are an English learner who worries about lack of fluency, please remember these words: When you speak too fast, your brain does not have the time to build correct sentences. You have to speak so slowly that your brain has the time to think about building sentences in English.

It's a general opinion that it is a good habit to speak slowly and carefully in a foreign language.

Learners should accept the fact that speaking in a foreign language is more difficult than speaking in one's native language. There is no need to worry about this. There is little fluency in the beginning and this is okay. Don't worry about lack of fluency.

HOMOPHONES

The following list of 70 groups of homophones contains only the most common homophones, using relatively well-known words. These are headwords only. They will help you in speaking individual words with correct pronunciation. No inflections (such as third person singular 's' or noun plurals) are included. Most of these are pairs. In a few cases, a third homophone is also possible but has not been included for simplicity. Please note that different varieties and accents of English may produce variations in some of these pronunciations. The homophones listed here are based on British English.

LINKING IN ENGLISH

When we say a sentence in English, we join or 'link' words to each other. Because of this linking, the words in a sentence do not always sound the same as when we say them individually. Linking is very important in English. If you recognise and use linking, two things will happen:

1. you will understand other people more easily
2. other people will understand you more easily

THERE ARE BASICALLY TWO TYPES OF LINKING:

- consonant > vowel
- We link words ending with a consonant sound to words beginning with a vowel sound
- vowel > vowel
- We link words ending with a vowel sound to words beginning with a vowel sound

UNDERSTANDING VOWELS AND CONSONANTS FOR LINKING

To understand linking, it is important to know the difference between vowel sounds and consonant sounds. Given below is a list of English vowels and consonants:

Vowels: a, e, i, o, u

Consonants: b, c, d, f, g, h, j, k, l, m, n, p, q, r, s, t, v, w, x, y, z

The list shows the letters that are vowels and consonants. But the important thing in linking is the sound, not the letter. Often the letter and the sound are the same, but not always.

For example, the word 'pay' ends with:

- the consonant letter 'y'

the vowel sound 'a' Here are some more examples:

	though	know
ends with the letter	h	w
ends with the sound	o	o
	uniform	honest
begins with the letter	u	h
begins with the sound	y	o

LINKING CONSONANT TO VOWEL

When a word ends in a consonant sound, we often move the consonant sound to the beginning of the next word if it starts with a vowel sound.

For example, in the phrase 'turn off':

We write it like this: turn off

We say it like this: tur noff

Remember that it’s the sound that matters. In the next example, ‘have’ ends with:

- the letter ‘e’ (vowel)
- the sound ‘v’ (consonant)

So we link ‘have’ to the next word ‘a’, which begins with a vowel sound:

We write it like this: Can I have a bit of egg?

We say it like this: Ca-nI-ha-va-bi-to-fegg?

LINKING VOWEL TO VOWEL

When one word ends with a vowel sound and the next word begins with a vowel sound, we link the words with a sort of W or Y sound.

If our lips are round at the end of the first word, we insert a W sound:

We write it too often who is so I do all like this:

We say it tooWoften whoWis soWI doWall
like this:

If our lips are wide at the end of the first word, we insert a Y sound:

We write it I am Kay is the end she asked
like this:

We say it IYam KayYis theYend she like this: Yasked

HOW TO PRONOUNCE -ED IN ENGLISH

The past simple tense and past participle of all regular verbs end in -ed. For example:

base verb (v1)	past simple (v2)	past participle (v3)
Work	worked	worked

In addition, many adjectives are made from the past participle and so end in -ed. For example:

- I like painted furniture.

The question is: How do we pronounce the -ed?

The answer is: In 3 ways - // or // or //

If the base verb ends in one of these sounds:

	example base verb*:	example with -ed:	pronounce the -ed:	extra syllable?
--	----------------------------	--------------------------	---------------------------	------------------------

unvoiced	/t/	want	wanted	/Id/	yes
Voiced	/d/	end	ended
	/p/	hope	hoped
	/f/	laugh	laughed
unvoiced	/s/	fax	faxed	/t/
	/S/	wash	washed
	/tS/	watch	watched		no
	/k/	like	liked
Voiced	all other sounds, for example...	play allow beg	play allowed begged	/d/

* note that it is the sound that is important, not the letter or spelling. For example, 'fax' ends in the letter 'x' but the sound /s/, 'like' ends in the letter 'e' but the sound /k/.

|| Pronunciation

EXCEPTIONS

The following adjectives ending in -ed are always pronounced with /ɪd/:

- aged
- blessed
- crooked
- dogged
- learned
- naked
- ragged
- wicked
- wretched

PRONOUNCING 'THE'

Normally, we pronounce 'the' with a short sound (like 'thuh'). But when 'the' comes before a vowel sound, we pronounce it as a long 'thee'.

vowel sound	we write	we say
A	the a pple	thee apple
E	the e gg	thee egg
I	the i ce-cream	thee ice-cream
O	the o range	thee orange
U	the u gly fruit	thee ugly fruit

It is important to understand that it is what we say that matters, not what we write. It is the sound that matters, not the letter used in writing a word. So we use a long 'thee' before a vowel sound, not necessarily before a vowel. Look at these cases:

we write	with	we say	with
the house	consonant (h)	thuh house	consonant sound
the hour	consonant (h)	thee our	vowel sound
the university	vowel (u)	thuh youniversity	consonant sound
the umbrella	vowel (u)	thee umbrella	vowel sound

It is often found that some of the words are not spoken correctly. The table below gives you an idea how to speak these words correctly.

ENGLISH PRONUNCIATION TIPS

- Tip 1

Do not confuse pronunciation of words with their spelling! For example, ‘threw’ and ‘through’, although spelled differently, are pronounced the same. Also, identical letters or letter clusters in words do not always produce the same sound. For example, the ‘ough’ in ‘though’ and ‘through’ represents a different sound in each word. Learn to practise what you hear, not what you see.

- Tip 2

Imagine a sound in your mind before you say it. Try to visualise the positioning of your mouth and face. Think about how you are going to make the sound.

- Tip 3

While listening for specific sounds, pay attention to pauses, the intonation of the instructor’s voice and patterns of emphasis. This can be just as important as the pronunciation of sounds.

- Tip 4

The English language has many different dialects and words can be pronounced differently. It is important, however, that you pronounce words clearly to ensure effective communication.

- Tip 5

You must practise what you are learning! Remember that you are teaching your mouth a new way to move. You are building muscles that you do not use in your own language. It is like going to the gym and exercising your body. Use the program to exercise your mouth a little bit each day.

|| Pronunciation

Silent Letters

Silent letters are letters that you can't hear when you say the word, but that are there when you write the word.

There are no rules, you just have to learn them.

- Mn at the end of a word (silent n), e.g. damn, autumn, column
- Ps at the beginning of a word (silent p), e.g. psalm, psychiatry, psychology
- Ght (silent gh), e.g. night, ought, taught
- Gn at the beginning of a word (silent g), e.g. gnome, gnaw, gnu
- Bt (silent b), e.g. debt, doubtful, subtle (but not in some words, e.g. 'obtain', 'unobtrusive'!)

The letter H is silent in the following situations:

- At the end of word preceded by a vowel, e.g. cheetah, Sarah, messiah
- Between two vowels, e.g. annihilate, vehement, vehicle
- After the letter 'r', e.g. rhyme, rhubarb, rhythm
- After the letters 'ex', e.g. exhausting, exhibition, exhort.

Many people are perhaps not aware of the astonishing fact that nearly every letter of the English alphabet is silent in some word. (Silent letters are also sometimes called mute letters.)

Vowels

Vowels are formed by retraction of the back of the tongue, as in 'father' by advancing the front of the tongue, as in 'bit' or else they are mixed, as in 'bird', in which the tongue is in a position half-way between back and front. By height they are high, as in 'hit', mid, as in 'hate' or low, as in 'hat'. The vowels of these three words are all front, but the distinctions of height apply to back and mixed vowels as well. Thus the u of 'full' is high-back, just as that of 'hit' is high front. All these vowels may be further modified by labialisation or rounding. Thus, if the ee of 'feel' is pronounced with narrowed lip-opening, we obtain the French u in 'lune' - the high-front-round. There are besides other modifications caused by the shape of the tongue itself.

Of the large number of possible vowels only a small proportion is employed in each language.

Again, among the special vowels of any one language we must distinguish between those differences, which are distinctive, that is, to which differences of meaning correspond and those which are not. Thus the first elements of the diphthongs in 'by' and 'out' vary considerably: some people sound them broad as in 'father', some thin, as in 'man', with various intermediate sounds. And yet the meaning of the words remains unchanged. The distinction between the vowels of 'men' and 'man', on the other hand, though really slighter than that of the different pronunciations of 'by' and 'out', is a distinctive one.

|| Vowels

It often happens that two sounds, though formed in different ways, have nearly the same effect on the ear. Thus the English vowel in 'turn' is formed in a totally different way from the French one in 'peur', the former being an unrounded, the latter a rounded vowel and yet they are hardly distinguishable by an untrained ear. The consequence is that two such vowels are never employed together in the same language to distinguish the meanings of words and for practical purposes they may be considered as variations of the same vowel. Hence we have to distinguish not so much between sounds as between groups of sounds. One of the most important distinctions of these groups is that of 'close' and 'open', the open vowels being generally formed by a 'low' position of the tongue or by some other widening of the mouth passage.

Disregarding special exceptions in individual languages, we may assume the following as the chief distinctive groups in language generally:

UNROUNDED.

- | | |
|------------------------------|------------------------------|
| (1) the dull-back, | but. |
| (2) the clear-back, | father. |
| (3) the mixed ^a , | turn, father, gabe (German). |
| (4) the high-front, | bit, beat. |
| (5) the close-front, | été (French). |
| (6) the open-front, | men, mare, man. |

ROUNDED.

- | | |
|------------------|----------------|
| (7) high-back, | full, fool. |
| (8) close-back, | so (German). |
| (9) open-back, | folly, fall. |
| (10) high-front, | lune (French). |

(11) close-front, peu (French).

(12) open-front, peur (French).

Diphthongs are, of course, symbolised by the juxtaposition of their elements. The following are the English diphthongs: - ai as in aisle.

au “ now.

oi “ boil.

ou “ soul.

Diphthongs in all languages vary greatly in their constituents and the above combinations must be understood as simply denoting general tendencies. Thus ai does not literally imply a combination of the a in ‘father’ and the i in ‘bit’, but merely a movement in that direction. We may start, not with a full-back vowel, but with a mixed one, which may move towards i, but without reaching it: in fact the commonest pronunciation of ‘aisle’ may be represented by el. In the same way ei only implies a front vowel moving upwards and, as a matter of fact, the starting-point may be either a close or open e or even the a of ‘man’. Indeed ei often begins with a mixed vowel, in which case ‘veil’ is confounded with ‘vile’.

Note that ei and ou in English supply the place of close long ee and oo, which most English people are unable to pronounce.

ii and uu are often diphthongised in a peculiar way in English, by being made to end in the consonants y and w respectively, wiin (ween) and fuul (fool) becoming wiyn and fuwl.

Having thus laid a general foundation, we may proceed to discuss some special modifications required in English.

As there is no short or close e or o in English, it is superfluous to use æ and to denote the quality of sounds whose openness is always implied by their shortness. We can, therefore, discard altogether in English and employ æ to denote the peculiar a in ‘man’, for which it would otherwise be difficult to find an appropriate letter.

The longs of a and e be expressed, as with the other vowels, by doubling - aa, ee. But as this is inconvenient and as ae is not used in English, it is better to denote the long of a by ae, the separation of the letters implying length. Long o may, on this analogy, be denoted by ao.

The vowel in 'turn' is open-mixed, that in 'gabe' close-mixed.

R AND ITS MODIFICATIONS.

The consonant r in English only occurs before a vowel, either in the same or the next word, as in 'erring' (eriq), 'far off' (faar aof). When not followed by a vowel, that is, either by a pause or a consonant, it is weakened into - the er of 'father'. After aa and ðð 'the' ð is absorbed, as in 'bar' (baa), 'farther' (faadhð), 'her' (hoe), 'heard' (hoed), the first two being indistinguishable from 'baa' and 'father'. ð is sometimes dropped after ao, especially before a consonant, as in 'floor', 'floored', although the full flaoð, flaoðd are most usual in careful speech, especially when the ð is final. After other vowels ð is preserved throughout, also when the r is sounded as a full consonant: compare 'air' (aeð), 'aired' (aeðd) and 'airy' (aeri) with 'far off' (faar aof), 'her own' (hoer oun) and 'flooring' (flaoriq).

The following table will give a general idea of these changes: - faar aof (far off)	faa	faadhð (farther).

hoer oun (her own)	hoe	hoed (heard).
fiiðriq (fearing)	fiið	fiiðd (feared).
aeðriq (airing)	aeð	aeðd (aired).
muuðriq (mooring)	muuð	muuðd (moored).
flaoriq (flooring)	flaoð	flaoðd (floored).
faiðriq (firing)	faið	faiðd (fired).

flauðri (flowery, floury) flauð flauðd (flowered).

leiðriq (layering) leið leiðd (layered).

louðriq (lowering) louð louðd (lowered).

Note that eið(r) and ouð(r) in rapid, especially in vulgar speech, often pass into aeð(r) and aoð(r).

When r is preceded by a short vowel, as in 'hurry' (hðri), 'merry' (meri), no ð is generated.

UNACCENTED VOWELS

The two chief unaccented vowels in English are ð and i, together with the rarer o. The former may be regarded as a shortened oe, as in 'her', into which it always passes when emphasised or prolonged, but it is really nothing but a voice murmur without any definite configuration. The i is an intermediate vowel between i and e and might as well be written e as i. It may be regarded either as a very open i or a very close e.

The following are examples of ð: - ðtemt (attempt), ðpouz (oppose), ðpon (upon), tðdei (to-day).

soufð (sofa), menshðn (mention), peishðns (patience), kærðt (carrot).

faadhð (father), onð (honour), mezhð (measure).

faowðd (forward), shepðd (shepherd).

feivðrit (favourite), mezhðriq (measuring).

ð is often dropped before l, n and m, always when the ð is preceded by t or d and followed by l or n:-

metl (metal), gaadn (garden), gaadniq (gardening), mðtn (mutton).

iivl (evil), loukl (local), simbl (cymbal, symbol).

When two or more unaccented ðs or is follow one another, one of them is often thrown out, as in - hist(ə)ri (history), feiv(ə)rit (favourite), vedzh{ə/i}təbl (vegetable).

i is less common than ə. It is most usual as a weakening of front vowels, especially when i or y is written: - piti (pity), məndi (Monday).

divaid (divide), ditekt (detect).

ræbit (rabbit), fishiz (fishes), əbiliti (ability).

It is the regular unaccented vowel before dzh, even when a is written: - vilidzh (village), kəridzh (carriage), kolidzh (college).

In rapid speech i is apt to pass into ə, except when final.

Unaccented o in ordinary speech is simply *ə*rounded. When dwelt on it becomes ou. Examples are - pteito (potato), folo (follow), felo (fellow).

In rapid speech this o passes into ə.

These vowels occur also in unaccented monosyllables. Compare 'a man' (ə mæn) with 'against' (əgenst), 'to go' (tə gou) with 'today' (tə dei), 'for all' (fəɹ aol) with 'forgive' (fəgiv), 'of course' (əv kaoəs) with 'offence' (əfens).

the and to have two distinct unaccented forms. Before consonants they both have ə, while before vowels they assume the fuller forms dhi and tu: - dhi mæn (the man), dhi enə mi (the enemy).

tə gou (to go), tu entə (to enter).

CONSONANTS

As regards the use of the letters there can be no question about the values of the following: - b, d, f, g, h, k, l, m, n, p, r, s, t, v, w, z.

This leaves c, j, q, x undisposed of. We also have y, which is not required as a vowel-symbol in English. If we allow y to retain its present value, we can also retain j as a convenient abbreviation of dzh. For tsh we have ch, which, by the omission of the superfluous h, can be reduced simply to c. We thus have c and j perfectly parallel. q may very well be taken to represent the back nasal ng. X lastly, if employed at all, must in consistency be extended to all kss in the language, not only in such words as six, but also in wreck (wrecks), cecx (cheques) and c.

These contractions fully counterbalance the necessity of retaining the digraphs th and sh, to which must of course be added dh and zh. Wh is very generally made into w in Southern English, but it is well to keep up the distinction on the chance of its being afterwards revived. The breath yh sometimes occurs in such words as 'hue' (yhuu), more commonly, however, pronounced hyuu, with a separate h before the y.

Consonants are often dropped in English. Thus the h of the personal pronouns is generally dropped when they come after a verb and are unaccented, as in ai sao im (I saw him). Saw her and soar are both pronounced sao. The d of and is generally dropped before a consonant, as in ct n cm gen (cut and come again), where the vowel is dropped also on account of the t and n.

Assimilations also occur in rapid speech. Thus, many people who pronounce the q of 'going' and c. quite distinctly in most cases, regularly change the back into the point nasal (n), when it is followed by a point consonant (t, d, n), as in gouin t ... (going to ...). In I can't go the t is generally dropped and the point nasal is often assimilated to the g by being made into the back nasal q - ai kaaq gou.

STRESS IN ENGLISH LANGUAGE

TRY THIS SHORT EXERCISE

Say this sentence aloud and count how many seconds it takes.

The beautiful Mountain appeared transfixed in the distance.

Time required? Probably about 5 seconds. Now, try speaking this sentence aloud.

He can come on Sundays as long as he doesn't have to do any homework in the evening.

Time required? Probably about 5 seconds.

Wait a minute the first sentence is much shorter than the second sentence!

The beautiful Mountain appeared transfixed in the distance

He can come on Sundays as long as he doesn't have to do any homework in the evening

You are only partially right.

This simple exercise makes a very important point about how we speak and use English. Namely, English is considered a stressed language while many other languages are considered syllabic. What does that mean? It means that, in English, we give stress to certain words while other words are quickly spoken (some students say eaten!). In other languages, such as French or Italian, each syllable receives equal importance (there is stress, but each syllable has its own length).

Many speakers of syllabic languages don't understand why we quickly speak or swallow, a number of words in a sentence. In syllabic languages each syllable has equal importance and therefore equal time is needed. English however, spends more time on specific stressed words while quickly gliding over the other, less important, words.

Let's look at a simple example: the modal verb 'can'. When we use the positive form of 'can' we quickly glide over the can and it is hardly pronounced.

They can come on Friday. (stressed words underlined)

On the other hand, when we use the negative form 'can't' we tend to stress the fact that it is the negative form by also stressing 'can't'.

They can't come on Friday.

As you can see from the above example the sentence, 'They can't come on Friday' is longer than 'They can come on Friday' because both the modal 'can't' and the verb 'come' are stressed.

So, what does this mean for your speaking skills?

Well, first of all, you need to understand which words we generally stress and which we do not stress. Basically, stress words are considered Content Words such as:

- Nouns e.g. kitchen, Peter
- (most) principle verbs e.g. visit, construct
- Adjectives e.g. beautiful, interesting
- Adverbs e.g. often, carefully

Non-stressed words are considered Function Words such as

- Determiners e.g. the, a, some, a few

- Auxiliary verbs e.g. don't, am, can, were
- Prepositions e.g. before, next to, opposite
- Conjunctions e.g. but, while, as
- Pronouns e.g. they, she, us

Let's return to the beginning example to demonstrate how this affects speech.

The beautiful Mountain appeared transfixed in the distance. (14 syllables)

He can come on Sundays as long as he doesn't have to do any home-work in the evening. (22 syllables)

Even though the second sentence is approximately 30% longer than the first, the sentences take the same time to speak. This is because there are 5 stressed words in each sentence. From this example, you can see that you needn't worry about pronouncing every word clearly to be understood. You should however, concentrate on pronouncing the stressed words clearly.

Now, do some listening comprehension or go speak to your native English speaking friends and listen to how they concentrate on the stressed words rather than giving importance to each syllable. You will soon find that you can understand and communicate more because you begin to listen for (and use in speaking) stressed words. All those words that you thought you didn't understand are really not crucial for understanding the sense or making yourself understood. Stressed words are the key to excellent pronunciation and understanding of English.

4. as a “schwa”

The vowel o may be pronounced:

1. o as in font (short o)
2. oh as in only (long o)
3. “uh” as in some. 4. as a schwa*

The vowel u may be pronounced:

1. u as in full (short u)
2. u as in brute (long u)
3. yu as in union (peculiarly English u)
4. “uh” as in cup

*a schwa is an unstressed vowel such as the a in comma, e in model, second o in common, i as in one American pronunciation of mobile [mob’uh’l], all pronounced as ‘uh’ by many speakers.

Consonant sounds

B, sounds almost as sharp as p in English.

Bh, is like ɳ, sometimes the sound of bh in the middle and at the end of certain words is like u and sometimes it is silent.

F, is like f in English.

Fh, is silent, except in the three words fhéin, fhuaire, fhathast, when it has the sound of h.

M, is like m in English.

Mh, is like v and more nasal than bh. It is silent in the middle and end of some words and gives a nasal sound to the vowel. In some districts it has the sound of u, as, samhradh, pronounced sauradh.

P, is like p in English.

Ph, is like f in English.

C, is always hard, before a, o, u, it has the sound of c in can, after a, o, u, it has the same sound in some districts, as, cnoc, like ck in lock, but more generally the sound of chk, before e, i and after i, like c in came.

Ch, preceded or followed by a, o, u, has a guttural sound like ch in loch, in contact with e, i, it has a more slender sound.

Chd, has the sound of chk, as luchd, pronounced luchk.

G, has a flatter sound than c, before and after a, o, u, it is like g in got, in contact with e, i, it sounds nearly like g in get.

Gh, is flatter than ch, before and after e, i, it has the sound of y in English, in contact with a, o, u, it has a broader sound. In the middle and end of certain words it is silent.

T, has a flatter sound than t in English, when preceded or followed by a, o, u, the sound is like th in than but stronger and is produced by putting the point of the tongue against or between the teeth, in contact with e, i, it has the sound of ch in chin.

Th, beginning a word has the sound of h, silent in the pronoun thu and in certain tenses of irregular verbs when preceded by d'. In the middle of some words it has a slight aspiration, in others it is silent.

D, is the flat sound of t, in the same position it has almost same sound as t, but softer.

Dh, is equal to gh in the same position.

S, in contact with a, o, u, is like s in English, before or after e, i, like sh, after t- (with hyphen) it is silent.

|| Stress in English Language

Sh, has the sound of h.

L, before or after a, o, u and ll after a, o, u, have a flatter sound than l in English and is produced by pressing the point of the tongue against the teeth as in the word that, in contact with e, i, the sound is like ll in million. It has a simple sound after i and when aspirated it is like l in English.

N, in conjunction with a, o, u, is like n in English, m has a flatter sound, with e, i, it has a slender sound like n in pinion, n aspirated has the sound of n in English, after c, g, m, t, it resembles the sound of r.

R, rr, like r in English.

Monosyllables ending in lb, lbh, lg, lm, nm, rg, rb, rbb, rm, are sounded as two syllables, thus, fearg (fearug), dealbh (dealuv), marbh (maruv).

The letters l, n, have an aspirated sound, though the aspirate letter is not used, so also has r though much slighter.

English is NOT PHONETIC

Always remember that English is not 'phonetic'. That means that we do not always say a word the same way that we spell it.

Some words can have the same spelling but different pronunciation, for example:

I like to read [ri:d].

I have read [red] that book.

Some words have different spelling but the same pronunciation, for example:

I have read [red] that book.

My favourite colour is red [red].

WORD STRESS

Word stress is your magic key to understanding spoken English. Native speakers of English use word stress naturally. Word stress is so natural for them that they don't even know they use it. Non-native speakers who speak English to native speakers without using word stress, encounter two problems:

1. They find it difficult to understand native speakers, especially those speaking fast.
2. The native speakers may find it difficult to understand them.

THREE KINDS OF WORD STRESS

1. Syllables with primary stress are in uppercase.
2. Syllables with secondary stress are in lowercase.
3. Syllables with reduced stress have a line through them.
 - INtellect
 - exPOnent
 - transPAREnt
 - OScilate
 - eQUIPment
 - preLIminary

Each unstressed vowel has a line through it. Each syllable with primary stress is in uppercase.

1. METHød
2. RANdøm
3. STATøs
4. cømPONENT
5. VERify

- A multi-syllable word has a prominent syllable. This is called a stressed syllable.
- Stressed syllable is longer in duration, higher in pitch and louder in volume.
- Duration is the primary attribute to the prominence of a syllable.
- Usually 2 syllable nouns (90%+) have the stress on the first syllable. 2 syllable verbs (60%+) have the stress on the second.
- Except for the compounds, stressed syllables in words with more than 2 syllables never stand next to each other (Stressed syllables and weak syllables alternate).

When a word has more than one syllable, one is more prominent than the others. When this happens, we say that the syllable has a stress or that it is stressed. In the following examples, stressed syllables are expressed with italics.

SENTENCE STRESS IN ENGLISH

Sentence stress is the music of spoken English. Like word stress, sentence stress can help you to understand spoken English, especially when spoken fast.

Sentence stress is what gives English its rhythm or 'beat'.

You remember that word stress is accent on one syllable within a word.

Sentence stress is accent on certain words within a sentence.

Most sentences have two types of word:

- 1.content words
- 2.structure words

Content words are the key words of a sentence. They are the important words that carry the meaning or sense.

Structure words are not very important words. They are small, simple words that make the sentence correct grammatically. They give the sentence its correct form or 'structure'.

If you remove the structure words from a sentence, you will probably still understand the sentence.

If you remove the content words from a sentence, you will not understand the sentence. The sentence has no sense or meaning.

Imagine that you receive this telegram message:

Will you SELL me CAR because I'm GONE to FRANCE

This sentence is not complete. It is not a 'grammatically correct' sentence. But you probably understand it. These 4 words communicate very well. Somebody wants you to sell their car for them because they have gone to France. We can add a few words:

Will you SELL my CAR because I've GONE to FRANCE

The new words do not really add any more information. But they make the message more correct grammatically. We can add even more words to make one complete, grammatically correct sentence. But the information is the same:

Content Words

Will you SELL my CAR because I've GONE to FRANCE.

Structure Words

In our sentence, the 4 key words (sell, car, gone, France) are accented or stressed.

Why is this important for pronunciation? It is important because it adds 'music' to the language. It is the rhythm of the English language. It changes the speed at which we speak (and listen to) the language. The time between each stressed word is the same.

In our sentence, there is 1 syllable between SELL and CAR and 3 syllables between CAR and GONE. But the time (t) between SELL and CAR and between CAR and GONE is the same. We maintain a constant beat on the stressed words. To do this, we say 'my' more slowly and 'because I've' more quickly. We change the speed of the small structure words so that the rhythm of the key content words stays the same.

RULES FOR SENTENCE STRESS IN ENGLISH

The basic rules of sentence stress are:

1. content words are stressed
2. structure words are unstressed
3. the time between stressed words is always the same

The following tables can help you decide which words are content words and which words are structure words:

Content words

Words carrying the meaning	Example
main verbs	SELL, GIVE, EMPLOY
Nouns	CAR, MUSIC, MARY
adjectives	RED, BIG, INTERESTING
Adverbs	QUICKLY, LOUDLY, NEVER
negative auxiliaries	DON'T, AREN'T, CAN'T

Structure words

Words for correct grammar	Example pronouns	he, we, they prepositions	on, at, into
Articles	a, an, the conjunctions	and, but, because auxiliary verbs	do, be, have, can, must
'to be' as a main verb	is, are, was

EXCEPTIONS

The above rules are for what is called 'neutral' or normal stress.

But sometimes we can stress a word that would normally be only a structure word, for example to correct information.

Look at the following dialogue:

“Have you seen ET?”

“No, I haven’t, but he has.”

ENGLISH PHONETIC SPELLING

When speaking on the telephone, it is sometimes useful to spell a word using English Phonetic Spelling. To spell 'Club', for example, you would say: 'C for Charlie, L for Lima, U for Uniform, B for Bravo'.

A	Alpha	J	Juliet	S	Sierra
B	Bravo	K	Kilo	T	Tango
C	Charlie	L	Lima	U	Uniform
D	Delta	M	Mike	V	Victor
E	Echo	N	November	W	Whisky
F	Foxtrot	O	Oscar	X	X-ray
G	Golf	P	Papa	Y	Yankee
H	Hotel	Q	Quebec	Z	Zulu

I India R Romeo

It is very easy to learn English Phonetic Spelling. Start by spelling your name, then your company or address. Soon, you will know the whole alphabet. It also helps to remember that there are several groups of words that go together:

- Dances: Foxtrot, Tango
- Shakespeare: Romeo and Juliet
- Men's first names: Charlie, Mike, Oscar, Victor
- Cities: Lima, Quebec

CONVERSATION

Using dialogues to help anybody develop their conversation skills is common practice in English. One of the main advantages to using dialogues is that people are given a rubric as a basis on which they can then build. Once they have become comfortable using a dialogue, they can then go on to have related conversations building on their familiarity with the dialogue and the vocabulary specific to the situation.

Here are links to various dialogues, which can use in the daily life. Each dialogue is presented in full and focuses on a specific topic.

B. Who's calling, please?

A. This is Fred Blinkingham. I'm Jack's friend.

B. Hold the line, please. I'll put you through. (after a moment) - I'm afraid he's out at the moment. Can I take a message?

A. Yes. Can you ask him to give me a call? My number is 345-

8965

B. Could you repeat that, please?

A. Certainly. That's 345-8965

B. OK. I'll make sure Mr. Parkins gets your message.

A. Thank you. Goodbye.

B. Goodbye.

MAKING AN APPOINTMENT

A. Hello. This is Richard Brown. I'd like to make an appointment to see Dr. Habi.

B. Certainly. What seems to be the problem?

A. I'd like to have my annual check-up.

B. Fine. When would you be available to come in to see Dr. Habi?

A. Any day next week in the morning would be great.

B. How about next Thursday at 10 o'clock?

A. That sounds fine. Thank you.

B. We'll see you next Thursday, Mr. Brown. Goodbye.

SEEING THE DOCTOR

A. Hello, what's the matter?

B. Good morning. I have a terrible ache in my lower back.

A. How long has your back been bothering you?

B. I've been having pain for about the last two weeks.

A. Do you have any history of back problems?

B. No, this is the first time.

A. Are you taking any medicine at the moment?

B. No, just an aspirin from time to time to kill the pain.

A. OK. Let's have a look at your back. Please take off your shirt

....

IN THE GYM

A. Hello, my name is Jane and I'd like to ask a few questions about getting fit.

B. Hi Jane. What can I do for you?

A. I need to get in shape.

B. Well, you've come to the right place. Have you been doing any exercise lately?

A. I'm afraid not.

B. OK. We'll start off slow. Which type of exercise do you enjoy doing?

A. I like doing aerobics, but I hate jogging. I don't mind doing some weight-lifting, though.

B. Great, that gives us plenty to work with. How often can you work out?

A. Twice or three times a week would be good.

B. Why don't we start with an aerobics class twice a week followed by a little weightlifting?

A. Sounds fine to me.

B. You'll need to start slowly and build up gradually to three or four times a week.

A. OK. What kind of equipment will I need?

B. You'll need a leotard and some sneakers.

A. Is that all? How do I sign up for the classes?

B. We'll need you to join the gym and then you can choose which classes fits your schedule best.

A. Great! I can't wait to get started. Thanks for your advice.

B. No problem. I'll see you in aerobics class!

My friend

A. My friend Rich is coming to town next week. Have you ever met him?

B. No, I haven't.

A. He's kind of crazy, but a great guy.

B. Yeah, why do you say so? What's he like?

A. He's really hard working, but very much a loner. He's pretty talented and can do just about anything.

B. Sounds interesting. Is he married?

A. No, he isn't.

B. What does he look like? Maybe my friend Alice would be interested in meeting him.

A. He's tall, slim and quite good looking. I'm sure your friend would find him attractive. What's she like?

B. She's outgoing and very athletic.

A. Really? What sports does she like playing?

B. She's a great tennis player and also goes bicycling a lot.

A. What does she look like?

B. She's kind of exotic looking. She's got long dark hair and piercing black eyes. People think she is rather beautiful.

A. Do you think she would like to meet Rich?

B. Sure! Why don't we hook them up?

A. Great idea!

WINNING THE LOTTO

A. Tom, take a look at this! This guy's won ten million dollars in the lotto!

B. What luck!

A. What would you do if you won ten million dollars?

B. Well, I know what I WOULDN'T do! If I won so much money, I wouldn't spend it. I'd put it in the bank!

A. You've got to be joking! I'd make sure to spend at least the first two million having a good time and buying things I've always wanted. I'd definitely spend a lot of time travelling.

B. Use your head! If you spent money like that, you'd soon have spent all your winnings!

A. You are so boring! If you were in his shoes, you'd just put money in the bank.

B. That's right. I'm sure I'd eventually start spending some money, but I'd be very careful to make that money last for the rest of my life.

A. What use would that be, if you didn't have any fun?

B. Oh, I'd have fun. I'd just be careful about how much fun I'd have.

A. I can't believe you!

B. Well you know the saying 'different strokes for different folks'!

A JOB INTERVIEW

A. Good morning Ms Brandies, please have a seat.

B. Good morning, it's a pleasure to meet you.

A. Could you tell me who you work for at the moment?

B. I work for Frank and Banowitz importers.

A. How long have you worked for them?

B. I've been working for Frank and Banowitz for the past three years.

A. And how long have you been working in the accounting department?

B. I've been in the accounting department for the past six months.

A. You know this job requires a lot of travel. Have you done much travelling for business?

B. Yes, the job I had before Frank and Banowitz required me to travel monthly.

A. And why did you leave that position?

B. I was offered a more interesting position at Frank and Banowitz.

A. Have you had any experience in sales?

B. Yes, I've spent a few years working part-time as an advertising consultant for schools offering summer language courses.

A. That's interesting. How successful have you been?

B. The schools I've worked for have all had increased registrations as a result of my collaboration.

A. Very interesting...

cific or other.

Eliza: Can you think of a specific example?

Young woman: Well, my boyfriend made me come here.

Eliza: Your boyfriend made you come here?

Young woman: He says I'm depressed much of the time.

Eliza: I am sorry to hear you are depressed.

Young woman: It's true. I'm unhappy.

Eliza: Do you think coming here will help you not to be unhappy?

Young woman: I need some help that much seems certain.

Eliza: What would it mean to you if you got some help?

Young woman: Perhaps I could learn to get along with my mother.

Eliza: Tell me more about your family.

Young woman: My mother takes care of me.

Eliza: Who else in your family takes care of you?

Young woman: My father.

Eliza: Your father.

Young woman: You are like my father in some ways.

Eliza: What resemblance do you see?

Young woman: You are not very aggressive but I think you don't want me to notice that.

Eliza: What makes you think I am not very aggressive?

Young woman: You don't argue with me.

Eliza: Why do you think I don't argue with you?

Young woman: You are afraid of me.

Eliza: Does it please you to believe I am afraid of you?

Young woman: My father is afraid of everybody.

Eliza: What else comes to mind when you think of your father?

Young woman: Bullies.

Eliza: Does that have anything to do with the fact that your boyfriend made you come here?

AN INTERVIEW WITH PARRY

Interviewer: How are you today?

Interviewer: What sort of work do you do?

Parry: I work in the Post Office.

Interviewer: Why are you in the hospital?

Parry: I shouldn't be here.

Interviewer: Who brought you here?

Parry: The police.

Interviewer: What trouble did you have with the police?

Parry: Cops don't do their jobs.

Interviewer: What do they do instead?

Parry: Cops arrest the wrong people.

|| Conversation

Interviewer: They arrest the right ones sometimes.

Parry: The law should get those Italian crooks.

Interviewer: Are you Italian?

Parry: My background is British, but I was born in this country.

Interviewer: Do you know any Italian crooks?

Parry: I try to avoid the underworld.

Interviewer: Are you afraid of the underworld?

Parry: The mafia are the worst gangsters.

Interviewer: Are you connected with the mafia?

Parry: You know, they know me.

Interviewer: How do they know you?

Parry: They spy on me.

Interviewer: Why do they?

Parry: They want to get false evidence to frame me.

Interviewer: What do they have against you?

Parry: They are out to get me.

Interviewer: What for?

Parry: I have incriminating evidence against the mafia.

Interviewer: Are you sure of all this?

Parry: You don't believe me?

BORROWING

S: Dad. Can I borrow the car tomorrow?

F: Why do you want to borrow the car?

S: I'm going to the beach with Tony.

F: Last time you borrowed it you had an accident and dented the door.

S: I promise I'll drive carefully this time.

F: And the petrol tank was almost empty.

S: I'll fill it up before I get home.

F: Well, OK then, provided you're home by 8. I'm going out tomorrow evening and I need the car.

S: Great. Thanks dad, I'll be home by 7:30.

Clothes shop

A: May I help you?

C: Yes, I'm looking for a pair of trousers.

A: What colour would you like?

C: Black.

A: And what size are you?

C: I'm not sure. Can you measure me?

A: [measures customer] You're 34" waist. How about these?

C: What material are they?

A: Wool.

C: Have you got anything in cotton?

A: Yes, these.

C: Can I try them on?

A: Of course. The fitting room's over there.

C: [tries trousers] They're a little long. Have you got anything shorter?

A: These are shorter.

|| Conversation

C: I'll take them.

A. Only £299.95.

C. It's a little expensive. Do you have a cheaper one?

A. Yes. This one's only £150.

C. What make is it?

A. It's a Panasonic.

C. I'll take it. Do you take credit cards?

A. Yes, we do.

PLANS AND EXCUSES

A: Let's go to a movie together.

B: I'd love to. When shall we go?

A: How about next Friday evening?

B: Let me see..... Oh, I am sorry, I'm having dinner with a friend.

A: How about the following Tuesday?

B: That'd be great. What shall we see?

A: Star Wars?

B: No, that's boring. How about Austin Powers?

A: Sounds good to me. When shall we meet?

B: Seven? In the Kent Tavern?

A: Great, see you there.

A: Would you like to come to a movie with me?

B: When do you want to go?

A: How about next Friday evening?

B: I'm sorry, I can't. I'm having dinner with a friend.

A: How about the following Tuesday?

B: I go to evening class on Tuesdays.

A: Oh, maybe some other time?

B: Yeah, I'll give you a call.

Hotel

R: Good evening. How may I help you?

G: Have you got any rooms?

R: Yes. Single, double or twin?

G: Single, please.

R: Would you like a room with a shower or a bath?

G: Just a shower will do.

R: Room 319. That'll be £12.50 a night, including breakfast. How long will you be staying?

G: Just a couple of nights. What time is the breakfast served?

R: Breakfast is from 7 to 9.

G: And what time is dinner?

R: Dinner's from 6:30 to 8:30. You'd better hurry, the restaurant closes in 15 minutes.

|| Conversation

G: Thanks.

BOOKING A FLIGHT

A: I'd like to book a flight to Tokyo please.

B: Which airline would you like to use?

A: Which is the cheapest?

B: When do you want to travel?

A: Next week, the 15th.

B: Would you like a return ticket?

A: Yes, I'm coming back on the 30th.

B: Let me see..... ABC costs £299.00, but you have to transfer at Hong Kong. XYZ is the cheapest direct flight at £349.00, both tourist class of course.

A: How long does the ABC flight take?

B: Total time is 15 hours, XYZ takes 11 hours.

A: I may as well go with XYZ then.

B: How many seats would you like?

A: Just the one and could I have vegetarian meals?

B: Certainly, there's no extra charge.

AT THE CHECK-IN DESK

C: Good morning, may I have your ticket please?

D: Certainly. Can I take this as hand luggage?

C: Yes, that'll be fine.

D: And can I have an aisle seat in the smoking section?

C: I'm afraid this is a non-smoking flight sir. But you can have an aisle seat. Here's your boarding pass. Have a nice flight.

D: Thank you.

AT PASSPORT CONTROL

E: May I see your passport please?

F: Here you are.

E: What is the purpose of your visit?

F: I'm on business.

E: How long will you be staying?

F: Fifteen days.

E: Thank you very much. Enjoy your stay.

AT CUSTOMS

G: Do you have anything to declare, sir?

H: Just some wine and cigarettes.

G: How much wine do you have?

H: Four bottles.

G: That's fine and how many cigarettes?

H: I have 20 packets.

G: I'm afraid you're only allowed 280 cigarettes. You'll have to pay duty on the rest.

H: Oh! How much is it?

G: It's £12.00 plus V.A.T. A total of £14.10.

H: Here you are.

THE POLICE ARE INTERVIEWING A SUSPECT:

P: Where were you last Tuesday evening?

S: I was staying in a hotel in Brighton.

P: Who were you with?

S: I was with my girlfriend, Joan.

P: What was the name of the hotel?

S: The George and Dragon.

P: What was your room number?

S: It was 213.

P: Did you speak to anyone?

S: Yes. I spoke to the waitress and the barman.

P: What was the barman's name?

S: His name was Colin?

OPENING AN ACCOUNT

A: Good morning, can I help you?

B: Yes, I'd like to open a deposit account.

A: Certainly Sir. Would you like a Silver or a Gold account?

B: What's the difference?

A: You can open a Silver account with just £5. The account comes with a cash card so you can withdraw your money at any time. The Silver account currently pays 5% interest. For the Gold account you need a minimum of £500 and you have to give 14 days notice to withdraw money. The interest rate is 6.5%.

B: I'll go for the Silver account.

A: How much would you like to deposit?

B: £500

A: And we'll need two proofs of ID, telephone bill, driving licence, credit card statement, etc.

B: I'm sorry, I don't have any of those on me. I'll come back tomorrow.

Applying FOR A MORTGAGE

C: Good morning, I'm the manager, how can I help you?

D: We'd like to apply for a mortgage.

C: Have you found a property you're interested in?

D: Yes, we have.

C: How much would you like to borrow?

D: Well, the property is £75,000, but we have a deposit of £25,000

C: So you need a £50,000 loan. Do you have an account with this bank?

D: Yes, we both have accounts here. I've had my account for over fifteen years.

C: How much do you both earn?

D: I earn £15,000 pa and my wife earns £12,500.

C: That's fine. Now, would you like to complete this form.....

A faulty TV

A: Good afternoon, can I help you?

B: I hope so. I bought this television here about three months ago, but the sound and picture quality are awful. The picture is always flickering and there's a dark line down the left-hand side of the screen. And there's an annoying hissing sound in the background.

A: Do you have an outside aerial?

B: Yes, I do.

A: Have you tried adjusting the aerial?

B: Several times.

A: Hmmmmm. I'll get our engineers to have a look at it.

B: A friend of mine bought the same model here and had exactly the same problems. I want a refund.

A: I'm afraid it isn't our policy to give refunds, sir.

B: I want to see the manager.

A bad holiday

A: Good morning, can I help you?

B: I'd like to make a complaint about my holiday in Portugal last week.

A: I'm sorry to hear that. What exactly was the problem?

B: First of all the coach taking us to the hotel broke down and we had to wait for over two hours in the sweltering heat before a replacement arrived. Then when we got to the hotel we found our room hadn't been cleaned.

A: Oh dear, did you complain to the hotel staff?

B: Of course, but we were told all the chambermaids were off duty. Anyway, that's not all. The people in the room above sounded like they were having all-night parties, every night. I demanded another room but the receptionist told me the hotel was full.

A: Oh, I see.

B: And to cap it all the food in the hotel restaurant was awful. It was so bad we had to eat out all the time despite having paid for meals in the price of our holiday.

A: I do apologise. I'd like to offer you a 20% discount on the price of one of our Autumn breaks as a gesture of goodwill.

B: A 20% discount, you must be joking. I want to see the manager.

CRIME

O: Dartford Police Station. Can I help you?

W: I hope so. My house has been burgled.

O: Where do you live?

W: 2B Southbrook Road.

O: When did you discover the burglary?

W: When I got home from work. About 5 minutes ago.

O: Was anything stolen?

W: Yes. My all my jewellery's gone and my computer too. And they sprayed graffiti all over my walls.

O: How did they get in?

W: They forced the back door.

O: An officer will be round in about half an hour. Please don't touch anything.

FINDING A FLAT

A: Hi, what can I do for you?

M: I'm interested in the flat in Central Parade. What can you tell me about it?

A: It's a conversion on the second floor of a beautiful, four-storey Edwardian house. It has two bedrooms and a large living room overlooking the sea. The kitchen and bathroom have recently been re-fitted.

M: Is it centrally heated?

A: Yes, it's centrally heated throughout and double-glazed too.

M: Does it have a parking space?

A: No, but there's plenty of unrestricted parking in Central Parade and nearby.

M: How much is it?

A: It's £39,995, but I believe the owner would be willing to accept an offer.

M: How long is the lease?

A: There's no lease. The price includes a share of the freehold.

BARBARA AND TED ARE PLANNING THEIR HOLIDAY:

B: Where shall we go for our holiday this year, Ted?

T: How about Majorca? It's cheap and good weather is guaranteed.

B: I'd rather do something more exciting this year. Have you seen this ad for adventure holidays in Scotland?

T: I prefer lying on a beach to hang-gliding and canoeing.

B: But we do that every year. I'd prefer to do something different this time. I'd rather not go anywhere so crowded.

T: Well, you have a point. Majorca was very crowded last time. I'd prefer somewhere a little quieter too, but I don't fancy anything too active.

B: How about Torquay? The weather's usually good and there are some lovely walks around the coast.

T: Sounds OK to me. Would you prefer to stay in a hotel or rent a cottage?

RULES

A. Welcome to Smith & Jones, Bert. Do you have any questions?

B. Yes, what time do I have to start work?

A. You have to start work at 8.30.

B. What do I have to do?

A. You have to type letters, make tea and answer the telephone.

B. Do I have to wear a uniform?

A. No, but you must wear a tie.

|| Conversation

B. Do I have to work overtime?

A. Yes, you have to work overtime every other Saturday.

Selling

S. Good morning, I'm doing a survey on family life. Could you spare a few moments to answer some questions?

M. Well, I'm rather busy....

S. It'll only take a minute or two. Are you married?

M. Yes, I am.

S. And do you have any children?

M. Yes, two.

S. Have you ever thought about what would happen to your family if you die or you're taken ill?

M. No, I haven't.

S. Let me tell you about our family protection plan.

M. I really must be.....

S. For only £50 a month this policy covers all medical fees and provides your family with an income equal to your salary in the event of your death.

M. I already have insurance, thank you.

S. Ah but when did you last increase your premiums? The cost of living is rising all the time and no other policy is as generous as ours.

M. I really can't afford any more insurance.

S. But can you afford not to? Just think about your wife and children if anything happens to you.

M. As I said.....

S. As a special offer, for this week only, we can offer you free cover for three months. Just sign here and your policy will start today. You can cancel any time in the next three months and it won't have cost you a penny.

M. I can cancel any time?

S. Yes. Just return the cancellation form. There's nothing to lose.

M. Oh, very well then.

TELEPHONE

A: Good afternoon, Fowler's, may I help you?

B: Extension 237 please.

A: I'm sorry, the lines busy, will you hold?

B: Yes, I'll hold.

.....

A: I'm putting you through.

C: Marketing, Harry Webb speaking.

B: Could I speak to Maurice Caine please?

C: I'm sorry, he's in a meeting at the moment.

B: Do you know when he'll be back?

C: He should be back around four. Can I take a message?

B: Yes, please ask him to call David Jones on 629 3478

C: 629 3478, right?

B: That's right.

C: OK, I'll see he gets your message.

|| Conversation

W: Good evening.

C: A table for two please.

W: Certainly. Just here, sir.

C: Could we sit by the window?

W: I'm sorry. The window tables are all reserved.

W: Are you ready to order, sir?

C: Yes. I'll have tomato soup for starters and my wife would like prawn cocktail.

W: One tomato soup and one prawn cocktail. What would you like for main course?

C: I'll have the plaice and my wife would like the shepherd's pie.

W: I'm afraid the plaice is off.

C: Oh dear. What do you recommend?

W: The steak pie is very good.

C: OK I'll have that.

W: Would you like anything to drink?

C: Yes, a bottle of red wine please.

PHRASAL VERBS

Phrasal verbs are part of a large group of verbs called ‘multi-word verbs’. Phrasal verbs and other multi-word verbs are an important part of the English language. Multi-word verbs, including phrasal verbs, are very common, especially in spoken English. A multi-word verb is a verb like ‘pick up’, ‘turn on’ or ‘get on with’. For convenience, many people refer to all multi-word verbs as phrasal verbs. These verbs consist of a basic verb + another word or words. The other word(s) can be prepositions and/or adverbs. The two or three words that make up multi-word verbs form a short ‘phrase’—which is why these verbs are often all called ‘phrasal verbs’.

The important thing to remember is that a multi-word verb is still a verb. ‘Get’ is a verb. ‘Get up’, is also a verb, a different verb. ‘Get’ and ‘get up’ are two different verbs. They do not have the same meaning. So you should treat each multi-word verb as a separate verb and learn it like any other verb. Look at these examples. You can see that there are three types of multi-word verb:

single-word verb	look	direct your eyes in a certain direction	You must look before you leap.
multi-word verbs	prepositional verbs	look after	take care of	Who is looking after the baby?

phrasal verbs	look up	search for a find information in a reference book	You can find look up my number in the telephone directory.
phrasal -prepositional verbs	look forward to	anticipate with pleasure	I look forward to meeting you.

PREPOSITIONAL VERBS

Prepositional verbs are a group of multi-word verbs made from a verb plus another word or words. Many people refer to all multi-word verbs as phrasal verbs. Prepositional verbs are made of: verb + preposition

Because a preposition always has an object, all prepositional verbs have direct objects. Here are some examples of prepositional verbs:

prepositional verbs	meaning	examples	direct object
believe in	have faith in the existence of	I believe in	God.
look after	take care of	He is looking after	the dog.
talk about	discuss	Did you talk about	me?
wait for	await	John is waiting for	Mary.

Prepositional verbs cannot be separated. That means that we cannot put the direct object between the two parts. For example, we must say 'look after the baby'. We cannot say 'look the baby after':

PHRASAL-PREPOSITIONAL VERBS

Phrasal-prepositional verbs are a small group of multi-word verbs made from a verb plus another word or words. Many people refer to all multi-word verbs as phrasal verbs. We make a distinction between three types of multi-word verbs: prepositional verbs, phrasal verbs and phrasal-prepositional verbs. We will look at phrasal-prepositional verbs.

Phrasal-prepositional verbs are made of: verb + adverb + preposition

Look at these examples of phrasal-prepositional verbs:

phrasal -prepositional verbs	meaning	examples	direct ob ject get on with	have a friendly relationship with	He doesn't get on with	his wife.
put up with	tolerate	I won't put up with	your atti- -tude.
look forward to	anticipate with pleasure	I look forward to	seeing you.
run out of	use up, exhaust	We have run out of	eggs.

Because phrasal-prepositional verbs end with a preposition, there is always a direct object. And, like prepositional verbs, phrasal-prepositional verbs cannot be separated. Look at these examples:

phrasal prepositional verbs are inseparable	We	ran out of	fuel.
	We	ran out of	it.

SLANGS

Slangs are used in highly informal speech that is outside conventional or standard usage and consists both of coined words and phrases and of new or extended meanings attached to established terms. Slang develops from the attempt to find fresh and vigorous, colourful, pungent or humorous expression and generally either passes into disuse or comes to have a more formal status. Slangs are used as an informal speech and make the language more user friendly. It makes spoken English more colourful and helps you express your thoughts in a better manner. Examples of some common slangs, along with their meanings and examples are given below:

AVERAGE JOE

Definition: Someone who is just like everyone else, a normal person.

Example: 1) Mickey is your average Joe - he likes football, hates opera and thinks it's a crime to do any work on weekends.

Etymology: 'Average' means 'in the middle' or 'not extreme' and 'Joe' is a common male name. So 'average Joe' refers to a man who is not extremely different from everyone else.

Synonyms: regular guy

|| Slangs

AIRHEAD

Definition: Someone who isn't very smart, a stupid person.

Example: 1) Susan and Jim are such airheads — they love sports but they are failing all of their classes at school!

Etymology: If your head is filled with air instead of brains, you probably can't think very well.

Synonyms: ditz

ARMPIT

Definition: An unpleasant or backwards place, an ugly and undesirable city or area.

Example: 1) Some people think Detroit is the armpit of America.

Etymology: Sometimes an 'armpit' (where the arm meets the body) has a strong and offensive odour.

Synonyms: dump

APPLE OF MY EYE

Definition: One's favourite person, the one you love

Example: 1) Miranda is the apple of my eye - I love her more than anything on earth.

Etymology: In Old English, the pupil of the eye (the round, dark centre) was called the 'apple'. It was thought that the pupil was a round object much like an apple (a piece of fruit). When you look at someone, their reflection appears in your pupil. So if someone is the 'apple of your eye', he or she is someone that you look at a lot and enjoy seeing.

ALL RIGHT

Definition: Encouragement, praise for something well done.

Example: 1) All right! You won the spelling contest.

Synonyms: way to go

ASS IS GRASS

Definition: The subject finds him or herself in trouble, to be in a bad situation.

Example: 1) Mr. Kearny, your ass is grass! What did you do to my computer files while I was away?

ALL-THERE

Definition: Sane, rational, of sound mind.

Example: 1) Be careful when you talk to Gary. After the car accident, he hasn't been all-there.

ALL OF YOUR EGGS IN ONE BASKET

Definition: Having all of your resources in one place, putting your money or hopes or future into one thing.

Example: 1) You don't want to keep all of your eggs in one basket. You might lose everything!

Etymology: 'Eggs' are delicate and if all of your eggs were in one container and that container was damaged, you might lose all of your eggs in one quick and painful moment.

BEHIND BARS

Definition: In prison or jail, incarcerated.

Example: 1) My brother Charlie tried to rob a bank, but the cops caught him and now he's behind bars.

Etymology: Prison inmates are locked behind metal bars, which prevent their escape.

|| Slangs

Synonyms: up the river, in the slammer, under glass

big shot

Definition: An important or prominent person in society, someone who commands a lot of influence and power.

Example: 1) Those big shots on Wall Street think they can buy the world with their money..

Synonyms: VIP

bump off

Definition: To kill or murder, to assassinate.

Example: 1) Igor got bumped off last week. The police have no clue who did it.

Etymology: When you 'bump' something, you give it a little push. 'Off' means 'not on'. So if you 'bump' someone 'off', you push him toward the end of his life.

Synonyms: rub out

bENDER

Definition: An episode of heavy drinking, a period of any kind of unusually intense behaviour.

Example: 1) After losing my job, I was so depressed that I went on a three day bender.

Etymology: Comes from the 19th century sense of the word 'bender', which was used for anything great or spectacular bells and whistles

Definition: Excessive or unnecessary features on something, showy or flashy parts.

Example: 1) My father bought a new computer with all the bells and whistles. I think it even makes toast.

Etymology: ‘Bells’ and ‘whistles’ make noise and attract attention, but they are not a necessary part of most things.

Synonyms: frills, extras bite the bullet

Definition: To confront a painfully difficult situation, to have a major problem in one’s hands.

Example: 1) After my Jimmy stole money from my company, I had to bite the bullet and fire him.

bring home the bacon

Definition: To earn money and support your family.

Example: 1) My wife brings home the bacon while I stay at home and take care of the kids.

Etymology: ‘Bacon’ is food (a salty meat made from pork). When you have a job and make money, you bring food and other necessities home for your spouse and children.

bust digits

Definition: To get someone’s telephone number.

Example: 1) I need a date for tomorrow night, so I’m going to try to bust some digits tonight.

Etymology: ‘Digits’ are numbers and ‘bust’ means ‘break open’. So the phrase suggests that you’re getting some numbers from a source that has to be opened up.

burned out

Definition: Extremely tired, lacking energy, worn out from working too much.

Example: 1) I was completely burned out after working on a big project for three weeks straight.

Etymology: When you are 'burned out' you have no more fuel to burn. You are without energy, like a candle that has consumed all of its wax.

Synonyms: wiped out, worn out, pooped

BACK BURNER

Definition: Not an urgent priority. To put something on the 'back burner' is to put something off until later.

Example: 1) We worked hard on the project at first, but when a new project came along, we put it on the back burner.

Etymology: The 'back burner' of a stove is where you put things that are slowly cooking and that you can leave alone for a while.

BAD EGG

Definition: A troublemaker, someone who has a bad attitude and causes trouble.

Example: 1) Emily is a real bad egg — she's always starting fights and causing trouble.

Etymology: In this phrase, 'egg' means 'person' or 'individual'. This is probably because the human head looks a lot like an egg. A bad egg, then, is simply a bad person. There is a similar phrase to describe a good person - a 'good egg'.

BELLY-UP

Definition: to stop existing, to stop performing as a business.

Example: 1) A lot of Internet companies went belly-up in 2001.

Etymology: when a fish dies, it floats to the top of the water with its belly up.

Synonyms: to go under, to go bankrupt

black out

Definition: To pass out, to lose consciousness.

Example: 1) After running a 3:25 mile, David blacked out on the pavement.

black sheep

Definition: Someone in a group or family who has a bad reputation, a misfit or outcast.

Example: 1) Ted is the black sheep of our family — he dropped out of school and hasn't had a job in years.

Etymology: Years ago, the wool from black sheep was less valuable than wool from white sheep. As a result, farmers were not happy when black sheep were born and considered them to be the undesirable members of the flock.

biggie

Definition: A term denoting importance or priority.

Example: 1) You didn't finish your project? No biggie, Professor Rolands extended the deadline.

Synonyms: big deal

chew the fat

Definition: To ramble about something irrelevant, small talk, chatting freely.

Example: 1) I'd love to sit here and chew the fat with you, but I've got a dentist's appointment at 10.

|| Slangs
